Trainer for Asphalt 8: Airborne will be available soon. Keep for updates. I'm currently learning some android for a school project and I can't figure out the way to set text dynamically to a TextView. Here is my code: protected void onCreate(Bundle savedInstanceState) { super.onCreate(savedInstanceState); setContentView(R.layout.activity_enviar_mensaje); err = (TextView)findViewById(R.id.texto); err.setText("Escriba su mensaje y luego seleccione el canal."); } This is currently not working and I can't find a way to make it work... Any help will be much appreciated... Thank you for the time, José. EDIT: Here is the activity_enviar_mensaje.xml ... ... By not working I mean the text shown does not change at any moment... 9 In your layout XML: Then, in your activity class: // globally TextView myAwesomeTextView = (TextView)findViewById(R.id.myAwesomeTextView); //in your OnCreate() method myAwesomeTextView.setText("My Awesome Text"); 4 PUT THIS CODE IN YOUR XML FILE PUT THIS CODE IN YOUR JAVA FILE // Declaring components like TextView globally is a good habit TextView mTextView = (TextView) findViewById(R.id.textview1); // Put this in OnCreate mTextView.setText("Welcome to Dynamic TextView"); Well, @+id/listaVista ListView is drawn after @+id/texto and on top of it. So change in ListView from: android:layout_below="@+id/editText1" to: android:layout_above="@+id/texto" Also, since the list is drawn after textview, I find it dangerous to have android:layout_alignRight="@+id/listaVista" in TextView. So remove it and find another way of aligning. EDIT Taking a second look at your layout I think this is what you really want to have: 2 In xml use this: In Activity define the view: Textview textView=(TextView)findViewById(R.id.textView); textView.setText(getResources().getString(R.string.txt_hello)); In string file: Hello Output: Hello I had a similar problem. It turns out I had two TextView objects with the same ID. They were in different view files and so Eclipse did not give me an error. Try to rename your id in the TextView and see if that does not fix your problem. Why don´t you try to assign the textview contents onStart() rather than onCreate() in your activity_main.xml paste this code: and go to res folder->values->strings.xml paste the below code with the code that already exists: Escriba su mensaje y luego seleccione el canal. the above code means that you have created a textview with id:name(android:id="@+id/name") and assigned that textview to a string with an identifier name(android:text="@string/name") in strings.xml your using that identifier name to assign the text, Try This: TextView err = (TextView)findViewById(R.id.text); Ensure you import TextView. Please correct the following line: err = (TextView)findViewById(R.id.texto); to: err = (TextView)findViewById(R.id.err); In XML file, In Java Activity file, public class MainActivity1 extends Activity { your code; public void onCreate(Bundle onSavedInstance) { setContentView(R.layout.xmlfilename); t1 = (TextView)findViewById(R.id.textview); } } first your should create an object for text view TextView show_alter show_alert = (TextView)findViewById(R.id.show_alert); show_alert.setText("My Awesome Text"); You can set string in textview programatically like below. TextView textView = (TextView)findViewById(R.id.texto); err.setText("Escriba su mensaje y luego seleccione el canal."); or TextView textView = (TextView)findViewById(R.id.texto); err.setText(getActivity().getResource().getString(R.string.seleccione_canal)); You can set string in xml like below. or As you have given static text err.setText("Escriba su mensaje y luego seleccione el canal."); It will not change , it will remain same. Example for Dynamic Text for textview is : MainActivity.java package com.example.dynamictextview; import android.app.Activity; import android.os.Bundle; import android.view.View; import android.view.View.OnClickListener; import android.widget.Button; import android.widget.TextView; public class MainActivity extends Activity { int count = 0; Button clickMeBtn; TextView dynamicText; @Override protected void onCreate(Bundle savedInstanceState) { super.onCreate(savedInstanceState); setContentView(R.layout.activity_main); clickMeBtn = (Button) findViewById(R.id.button_click); dynamicText = (TextView) findViewById(R.id.textview); clickMeBtn.setOnClickListener(new OnClickListener() { @Override public void onClick(View v) { count++; dynamicText.setText("dynamic text example : " + count); } }); } } For activity_main.xml You should use ButterKnife Library And use it like @InjectView(R.id.texto) TextView err; inCreate method ButterKnife.inject(this) err.setText("Escriba su mensaje y luego seleccione el canal."); 1 Your code is ok, you are loading the .xml that contains the TextView using setContentView() setContentView(R.layout.activity_enviar_mensaje); and then getting the reference of the TextView inside activity_enviar_mensaje.xml, and setting a text: err = (TextView)findViewById(R.id.texto); err.setText("Escriba su mensaje y luego seleccione el canal."); The problem is that your TextView is hidden by the ListView: I know its 2 months but yeah replace your code Private TextView err; protected void onCreate(Bundle savedInstanceState) { super.onCreate(savedInstanceState); setContentView(R.layout.activity_enviar_mensaje); err = (TextView)findViewById(R.id.texto); err.setText("Escriba su mensaje y luego seleccione el canal."); } In your layout. Your Texto should not contain (android:text=...). I would remove this line. Either keep the Java string OR the (android:text=...) Go to your activityMain and set the text by adding a widget from the widgets section and manually changing text by selecting and typing. final TextView err = (TextView)findViewById(R.id.texto); err.setText("Escriba su mensaje y luego seleccione el canal."); you can find every thing you need about textview here To set using a String, just use this view.text = "My string" To do the same with a resource value, add this extension property to much more easily set your text view.textRes = R.string.my_string var TextView.textRes get() = 0 // HACK: property requires getter set(@StringRes textRes) { text = resources.getText(textRes) } Maybe you have assigned the text in onResume() function Highly active question.
